Wood's THEATER. -- Atonement, or the Child Stealer, still holds the stage at Geo. Wood's theatre, on Broadhiss Lucille Western, by the rendition of her extraordinary character of Margaret Rookley, can manage to attract such large and intelligent audiences as greeted her last evening, in the second week of the play, it would, perhaps, be profuble to have its representation continued. But it will probably give place to some other novelty presently. Those who have not seen the piece would do well to attend during the present week. The story of the Child Stealer in uself is abhorrent and shocking to sensitive nerves, and the beholders, while they sympathize with Margaret Rookley in her possiblement, when she sells her own child by mistake, can but think it a just roward for her crimes. Upon this incident turns the plot of the play. Last evening Miss Western infused more than the dunal amount of interest into the leading character, and as she has upon every presentation of the piece, received hearty and genuine applause. Mr. Barton fill and Mesers, George C. Daveuport, Welsh Edwards, Leffingwell, Goodman, Jordan and Miss Henrichta Oeborne, Miss Alice Seidler and Mrs. Wright readered Miss Western a very competent support. Mr. Davenport was consumedly comical in the scenes with his uncle, the detective, and Mr. Edwards, as Lord Lausdale, the reputed father of Mand, in the interview with Richard Craddock and in other acts, gave evidence of careful study and a desire to place. In the latter he was quite successful. The play has recently been shortened by the compression of the third and foorth acts into one, which has added considerably to the effect and attractiveness.

ORGAN CONCERT.—A grand organ concert will be given by Mr. Geo. W. Morgan, at the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Baptist, on Lexington avenue, corner of Thirty-fifth street, this evening, on which oc-casion he will assisted by Miss Zeida Harrison, the pop-ular concert contraito, who will sing three pieces;

Horneste Death of a Young Lady by Burning.—A young lady, twenty years of age, named Helen Martin Jarratt, nicce of Mr. David Martin, residing at No. 130 Washington street. Hobokun, met with a horrible death by burning, on Sonday last, under the following circumstances:—Miss Jarratt was endeavoring to kindle a fire, and the wood being damp and not readily igniting she threw a quantity of kerosene upon it, which communicated to the fire underneath, and, flashing up, ignited the oil in the can, which exploded, setting fire to her clothing, and before it could be extinavished the young lady was so dreadfully burned that she expired after suffering the most intense agony for twelve hours. Miss Jarratt was a most exemplary young lady, and belonged to the Trinity church choir, Hoboken, from which place the funeral took place on Tuceday afternoos.

Pourrossumer or run Jourson Martina.—The public meeting called to be held in Jersey City this evening, for the purpose of sustaining President Johnson's course, has been postponed in consequence of a similar call under the auspices of prominent gentlemen of all political parties. The time and place for holding the meeting have not yet been decided upon.

It appears that there is likely to occur a condict in the settling up of the concerns of the Morris Fire and Inland Insurance Company, an account of the empension of which was published in the Herald y sesterday. Judge Barnard has appointed John R. Barnara has approached some a rances, hear, received, and that gentleman promptly filed bonds in the requisite sum for the faithful performance of his duties. It is said that Mr. Finnelsury, who has been acting as Prenident of the inserance corporation for the past these months, has also received a similar appointment from nome other authority. Judge liarness, on Tuesday, expressed a distormination to appoint no nyan as receiver who had held office in the commany against which he has granted the folunction.

that day. Indeed, some ascert that his is the day fixed upon for General Sweeny to strike—that his plan of attack is to send small raiding parties against Canada on the 17th of March to cause a diversion and attract the attention of the British troops in Canada, while with his main force he invades New Hrunswick and effects a lodgment on the sea coast. The government official here profess to believe that the Canadian Irish on St. Patrick's day will make a demonstration of a threatening nature, as a cover for raids on the border, and that Sweeny will make the lower province his real point of attack. As a protective measure, the loyal Orangemen of the country are arming to assist the government, and a lively time may be looked for.

To one familiar with the power of the military of Canada it does seem reasonable that Sweeny could not accomplish much here now; but New Brunswick can be reached without crossing rivers and lakes, and with the small force there and the difficulty of obta ming troops in the winter and spring from Canada and Encland she would be unable to offer much resistance. There was a time when Sweeny might have taken Canada, but a lallowed it to slip by. That he and his Congress and Senate are working in sober carnest I have no doubt; but Canada is no longer accessible. It is imprepable to any force the Fenians can raise. If Sweeny proposes to make a lodgment in a British colony on this continent it must be via the Maine frontier. No longer can it be done by the St. Lawrence, where the ice is already breaking up, and where thirty or forty thousand men can be thrown against him in a few hours.

Last summer, you will recollect, an aiderman of Hamilton, C. W., ran away to avoid trial for complicity with burgiars and pickpeckets. It came out then that Sergant Major McDowell, of the Toronto pile force, was in some way an accomplice with the dishouset alderman and certain Hamilton policeanen, who were dismissed from office. McDowell, for the Toronto pile force, was in some way an accomplice with the dis times as police magnitude, were in the pay of the bank robbers, and received large money considera-tions as their share.

All the contents of the affidavit have not leaked out yet— the local papers only connect the police with the trans-action—but enough is known to establish the belief that respectable ex-alderman of the city have prostituted their office to the acquisition of fucre.

It is further reported that one ex-aiderman implicated in the Galt affair has cleared for the United States, and Lennosville, Eastern township, and robbed the banks

On the 24th Lieutenant Governor Gordon, of New

This meeting of Governors is regarded as a political event of much importance. The first object associated to the meeting is that steps are soon to be taken for bringing the question of confederation to an issue; and the second is that the two Governors have met to consider the question of mutual defence, and to concert messares for co-operation. The enemy loooked for at this time is, of course, the Feenha, and it is expected that he will attack New Brunewick first, then the contiguous province, which, if taken, would serve are have of operations for the dispatch of privateers against British commerce, and of a corpe conditionator to include. The Telegraph gives excellent advice to the government when it warm them that "Canada is not in a position to have the propositions of memorandom A repeated." That is quite certain; and the only pity is that the authors of that memorable document had not understood a little sconer the feelings and interests of the people they went to Washington to represent.
